

CE-890 Benjamin House

c.1740, 1940

The Benjamin House is primarily a 20th Century structure but contained within its walls is the last remnant of the early English Quaker building tradition that once existed in the area. The 2 story 3 bay glazed header Flemish bond brick south wall (main) is the only indicator of the early structure other than the 1740 datestone between the two second story windows. Other early details include segmental arches over basement and first floor windows which have their heavy mortise and tenon window frames. The datestone has the initials W.H and M.H along with the 1740 date and other smaller initials. Complete structures with these same features exist in the Calvert area. (John Churchman House, CE-187 and Mercer Brown House, CE-88)

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Benjamin House c. 1940 partially consists of a much earlier house that was built in 1740 with the initials W H and M H in a datestone on the front of the house. According to Stanley Benjamin, the present owner, the early house was in rather poor condition so he built a new structure while incorporating the old walls of the 1740 building. The roof was removed and the gable turned to run perpendicularly to its previous orientation. A 2½ story stuccoed block, 3 bays across by 2 bays deep was added to the north side of the earlier section. The entire house was stuccoed except for the first floor of the south facade because of a single story shed porch.

The first floor is built with glazed header Flemish bond brick with a beveled water table. Segmental arches appear over the first floor and basement windows. The mortise and tenon window frames remain, however the early sash windows have not. Between the two windows on the second floor is the slate date stone with the initials W * H and M H and 8 smaller initials H H, W H, M H, T H, and C H. The date 1740 is also inscribed in a larger size. The datestone has a slight pediment.

The interior could not be seen but has been extensively remodeled.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Although this house has been extensively altered, it still is evident that the original house was probably a hall/parlor structure of ~~early~~ ^{early} ~~Irish~~ ^{Irish} tradition. No other early structures of this form remain in the area, thus making the remains of this early house extremely important. This house retains the earliest dated ~~structure~~ ^{place} in the Conowingo Area, and attests to the fact that there were early ~~Irish~~ ^{Irish} settlements in the vicinity. The specific architectural elements mentioned also retain significance in tying it to similar buildings in the eastern part of the county of similar date. (NAME THE JOHN CHURCHMAN HOUSE CE-187 AND THE MERCER BROWN HOUSE CE-88).
